

THE HWACHON RESERVOIR is the target for two direct hit by torpedoes launched by U.S. Navy fliers from the carrier Princeton. The Communist-held reservoir goes up in concrete and dust as the missiles strike the floodgates, closed by Reds who sought to lower water levels and facilitate movement of their troops over riverbeds.

Reds Fall Back All Along Front

Tokyo, Wednesday (AP)—Red forces fell back today all along the Korean war front.

Hard-fighting South Korean troops pushed them back in the west and east. The Reds withdrew ahead of far-ranging Allied patrols in the center.

Censorship would not permit pin-pointing positions of the limited Allied attacks.

Northwest of Seoul, South Koreans crossed the Han river from Kimpo peninsula and probed Red lines south of Kaesong. That city is 35 miles northwest of Seoul and within two miles of the 38th parallel.

Another South Korean column drove north from Seoul.

A dispatch from Korean headquarters of the U. S. Eighth Army by AP Correspondent Robert E. Eason reported the actions. But mileages were deleted.

The purpose of the push north of Kimpo peninsula was to guard against any Red move to slip down that way and encircle Seoul from the rear.

The Reds fought back against the South Koreans along the Seoul-Munsan road, using mortars, anti-tank guns and automatic weapons.

There were several brisk actions in the sector (five words deleted) northwest of the capital along the road to Munsan, Eason reported.

"West of the road, Allied units pushed north and were fighting a battle with North Korean Reds (three words deleted) south of Munsan," he said.

Beyond Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul, Allied engineers cleared a mine field under fire of a Red company hiding in nearby hills.

On the central front, Allied patrols entered Chunchon for the second straight day Tuesday without finding any Reds. Chunchon, a former Red stronghold, is 45 miles northeast of Seoul and eight miles south of the 38th parallel.

"East of this important road junction town, however, an Allied patrol was ambushed and forced to withdraw," Eason reported.

Around Kapyong, between Chunchon and Seoul, Allied and Red units fought three brisk skirmishes.

Stiff fighting was reported in the vicinity of Inje, a town 7 miles northeast of Seoul and four miles north of the 38th parallel.

The enemy lines seemed to be giving on the extreme eastern tip, Eason said, but holding fairly firm directly east of Inje.

Eighth Army made the relatively low claim of 915 Reds killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday and 69 captured.

Red vehicular traffic behind the lines slackened somewhat. But Allied fliers counted 1,625 vehicles last night, most of them in the west.

Order Cease-Fire

Lake Success, N. Y. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council last night ordered an immediate cease-fire in the fighting along the Syrian-Israeli border. The vote was 10 to 0, with Russia abstaining.

Marshall Warns Against Added Risk Of Open War With Russia

Threat Of Soviets Entering Conflict Held 'Very Real'

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall gravely warned yesterday that Russia may enter the Korean war without notice but he declared this threat would be far greater if the nation follows the war plans proposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

For the second day, the 70-year-old secretary urged that this country not take the added risk of open conflict with Russia by stepping up the war against China.

He said the Soviets have massed strong ground and air forces in the Far East and their entry into the Korean struggle would "be a very serious thing."

With this warning, Marshall sharply took issue with MacArthur who testified last week he did not believe the bombing of China would draw the Russians into the conflict—or that the Russians could wage much of a war in the Far East.

At the same time, Marshall voiced concern that MacArthur's remarks about thousands of casualties in a bloody Korean "stalemate" may seriously damage the morale of the United Nations' combat troops.

He told the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees—looking into the causes of the MacArthur ouster—that there is the "very real possibility" of Russia's entry into the Korean war.

"Like all other matters pertaining to the Soviet government," he said, "the decision is of a few men and can be an instant decision whenever they choose to make it."

"They may make it without any reference to a specific event and again they may find themselves imperiled and therefore take action to reduce that peril."

He conceded, also, that U. S. policy of building up defenses in Europe may provoke a war with Russia. But he insisted the risk must be taken because this country has "no choice whatever there."

Marshall declared administration policy in Asia may seem costly and a stalemate in Korea may appear the only end. But he added the cost cannot be compared at all "to what happens if we get involved in what you might call an atomic war."

MacArthur has challenged the administration policy and called stronger measures against the Red-Chinese—bombing, a blockade and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops. He expressed firm belief this could bring a quick end to the Korean conflict.

But Marshall pictured Korea as only part of a world struggle with Communism. He said: "There can be, I think, no quick and decisive solution to this global struggle short of resorting to another world war. The cost of such a conflict is beyond calculation."

"It is, therefore, our policy to contain Communist aggression in different fashions in different areas without resorting to total war, if that be possible to avoid."

"Korea is only the latest challenge in this long, hard, continuing world-wide struggle."

Marshall contended the best way to win the Korean war is to shatter the morale of Chinese Red armies with "terrific casualties" on the battlefield.

Without mentioning MacArthur by name, Marshall said the deposed general had in effect called U. N. casualties in Korea "without justified purpose."

The secretary pleaded for a procedure in the Asia policy hearing "that does not destroy us in the field by serious reaction in the way of morale."

U. S. Rejects Red Plan For Jap Treaty

Washington (AP)—The United States accused Russia yesterday of trying to "stall" preparations for an early Japanese peace treaty and brusquely rejected a Soviet proposal to turn the task over to a Pacific big four.

Moscow advanced the proposal Monday, and included Communist China along with Russia, the U. S. and Britain as the four powers which should lay down the terms for a World War Two settlement with Japan.

The State department brushed the idea aside with this comment: "It is a mockery to pretend that to negotiate a Japanese peace under these conditions would actually produce peace."

What Moscow is seeking, the department charged, is a "double veto" by including Communist China among the big four.

The State department made plain that the United States intends to go ahead with moves now in progress with 14 other non-Communist countries to complete the Japanese settlement, possibly this summer.

21 Candles On HST Cake

Washington (AP)—President and Mrs. Truman arranged a quiet dinner with their daughter Margaret at the Blair House last night in honor of the Chief Executive's 67th birthday.

The family affair topped off an anniversary of gifts and a surprise luncheon given Mr. Truman by 25 members of his staff in the executive office private dining room.

John P. Negro chef, baked a huge birthday cake for the luncheon. There were no speeches, but plenty of chicken, ham, potatoes, ice cream and coffee.

Members of the President's staff also gave him a cake with 21 candles. Asked why there were 21 candles, a secretary replied: "Naturally, you couldn't get 67 candles on one cake. Twenty-one is the age of young manhood. It's an arbitrary number like when a woman over 21 gives her age to the census taker."

Mary Astor Now Out Of Danger

Hollywood (AP)—Actress Mary Astor, in a fit of despondency over an illness of middle age, swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills early yesterday, police reported.

The former brunet charmer, now 45, was out of danger several hours later, attendants and family said. Officers reported finding her unconscious in her nightgown in her suburban Encino home. They said they found a partially emptied box and bottle of sleeping pills, with several pills strewn on the floor.

Police said Miss Astor, now married to Thomas Wheelock, had taken two overdoses of pills last year, but had not required hospitalization.

Tinder-Dry Woods Afire Seventh Day

Bushkill — A forest fire broke out west of here yesterday in an area above Winona Five Falls in Middle Smithfield township of Monroe county and near the Saw Creek area in Lehman township of lower Pike county.

Robert L. Pierce, assistant district forester for the Pocono mountain area, said the blaze was reported at 2:40 p. m. and that no estimate is as yet available on the amount of acreage burning.

Later reports were that the fire was still moving in the back area, although experienced crews under Paul DePue, the Bushkill fire warden, and Ralph Angle, forest inspector of the Dingmans Ferry area, had moved out to fight the flames.

It was said that Bushkill fire company and other fire companies would be summoned if the blaze reached large proportions.

Pierce said the burning forest land is in the same locale which was visited by fire last week. Smoke and flames were visible from Unity House and Camp Tamiment yesterday.

Yesterday marked the seventh successive day that State foresters and volunteers have battled mountain fires in the Pocono region.

A series of both large and small outbreaks have been reported in the wind-dried Poconos since last Wednesday when the first fires broke out near Anasimink and Cresco.

Several of the fires have burned for several days before being completely extinguished.

U. S. Grants Concessions

Washington (AP)—The United States has granted sweeping new tariff concessions to 17 western countries in another major move to expand world commerce.

Reduced duties covering $419,271,000 in foreign shipments to the United States will start going into effect June 6 under the new international agreements.

At the same time, existing low rates will be maintained on $58,305,000 in foreign imports.

In return, foreign governments have agreed to cut tariffs or keep from hiking rates on $1,157,000,000 of American products.

This country reduced its levies on many articles ranging from metals in short supply here to certain foods. It won concessions for sale abroad of many American farm products, chemicals and machinery among other things.

The new agreements, announced last night by the State Department, were negotiated during a seven-month tariff conference at Torquay, England, which ended April 21.

Thirty-four nations, accounting for 80 per cent of world commerce, attended the meeting. It marked the third time that western countries have banded together to reduce trade barriers since World War Two ended.

Division officers said the training, first full operational maneuver with the entire unit participating, will primarily concern defense techniques.

A command post will be set up in a heavily-wooded area and men will set up a defense line to prepare against attack.

Hull's Condition Slightly Improved

Washington (AP)—"Some improvement" in the condition of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull was reported yesterday afternoon by physicians at Naval hospital.

Hull, 79, is suffering from a respiratory infection and heart trouble. His name is still on the critical list, but he is fully conscious.

Elevators Idle

New York (AP)—The people who man New York's towering business skyscrapers went on strike yesterday, stranding thousands of office workers high above Manhattan. Elevators in 100 office buildings were idled.

LAST STRIP OF CONCRETE was installed yesterday at the railroad underpass of the new Paradise Valley road. Using a "high early" cement, the short section of concrete will "set" faster and permit earlier use of the entire new route to Mount Pocono. F. D. Kessler, Northumberland, is the contractor. Lackawanna Railroad tracks use over-pass to eliminate the old Smith's grade crossing.

Moran, Pal Of O'Dwyer, Found Guilty

New York (AP)—Democratic politician James J. Moran, an old friend of ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer, was convicted yesterday of lying to the Kefauver Senate Crime committee about his relations with a Brooklyn racketeer.

A jury of seven women and five men found him guilty of perjury after deliberating about an hour and a half.

"I have nothing to say," Moran told newsmen angrily after the verdict.

His attorney said the decision probably will be appealed.

Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey set Friday for sentencing. The maximum penalty is five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

Moran was given his freedom until Friday under the same $25,000 bond he posted originally.

Moran was convicted of lying when he swore to the committee he met Brooklyn numbers racketeer Louis Weber no more than half a dozen times during Moran's heyday as a pet of the O'Dwyer administration.

The government claimed Moran met Weber more than 100 times, then lied to the Senate committee to help cover up a "monstrous alliance between crime and politics."

Injured Survivor Found Three Days After Plane Crash

Somerset (AP)—Surveyors yesterday found the wreckage of a small cabin plane and an injured survivor who said he had been lying by the wreck since the craft became lost in the fog and crashed into a mountain top last Saturday, killing the other two occupants.

Rescuers said the man identified himself as Richard G. Adair, 23, and the dead pilot as George Seymour, both of Danville, Ill. Adair is in Community Hospital here in a critical condition.

The wrecked plane was found on top of Allegheny tunnel on the Pennsylvania turnpike eight miles east of here. The craft took off from Columbus, O., early Saturday bound for Baltimore, Md.

Along with the corporate and individual income tax bills, the Senate committee also reported out other portions of the tax program. They include bills continuing the ten per cent liquor tax, one cent a pint on beer, and four cents on a pack of cigarettes and postponing for another two years the manufacturers' exemption from the capital stock tax.

Senate Committee Approves State Income Tax Measure

Harrisburg (AP)—The administration's slow-moving income tax bill won committee approval in the Senate yesterday but a vote was put off until next week.

The Senate Finance committee by a 9-7 vote gave its okay to the hard-fought measure imposing a tax of one-half of one per cent on individual incomes.

The action sent the bill to the Senate floor for action. By agreement between Republican and Democratic leaders, however, debate and a vote on it was deferred, possibly until next Tuesday.

The income tax bill, estimated to produce $119,000,000 is the key-stone of Gov. John S. Fine's $163,000,000 tax program.

A companion measure increasing the corporate net income tax from four to five per cent was also approved by the committee. That bill will yield an additional $44,000,000.

The Senate committee inserted several amendments into the income tax bill. They may provide future headaches for administration leaders, who have been trying to get the tax program through the assembly for weeks.

The House once defeated the levy but passed it by a narrow margin on a second vote. The Senate amendments will force return of the measure to the House once more, upon clearing the Senate, for action on the amendments.

Three of the more important changes would: Exempt railroad retirement pensions from the payment of the tax because they are made under Federal law and in the same classification as social security payments, also exempt from the tax.

Eliminate the necessity of house-holders to withhold taxes from the salaries of their domestic help.

Permit banks and similar trust officials to ignore a requirement that the income of trust funds be reported to the State Revenue department if those trust funds are $2,000 or less.

Salary Board Set Up By Eric Johnston

Washington (AP)—Federal machinery was set in operation yesterday to deal with special pleas for higher pay and to settle major labor-management disputes within the defense program.

The outcome may be new holes in the government's wage and salary ceilings.

The 18-man Wage Stabilization board held its first meeting and quickly began to tackle a backlog of 1,200 wage cases.

Simultaneously, Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston set up a three-man Salary Stabilization board to develop policy on the pay of non-union white collar workers and others. The list includes executive, administrative, professional and certain sales and supervisory employees.

Chairman George W. Taylor of the Wage board told newsmen he hopes to clear up the pending 1,200 wage cases as rapidly as possible.

Officials noted that disputes are smoldering in several major industries.

Congressman Kee Fatally Stricken

Washington (AP)—Rep. John Kee (D-WVa.), 76, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, died of a heart seizure yesterday.

Kee collapsed while presiding over a closed-door session of his committee. He died a few minutes later.

The West Virginia legislator, a veteran of 18 years in Congress, had been suffering from a heart condition for several years and only recently returned to Capitol Hill from a siege in the Bethesda, Md., Naval hospital.

Eastburger Wins Fourth Top Award

The Eastburger, East Stroudsburg High school student newspaper, has captured a National Scholastic Press association first class award for the fourth consecutive year.

The newspaper's standing was derived from the results of an intricate mathematical system, in which all phases of the paper were broken down, studied and then scored.

These items, in turn, were added together to give department scores as follows.

News values and sources—185 points.
News writing and editing—235 points.
Headlines, typography and make-up—195 points.

This gave the paper a total of 810 points, which entitled it to a first class award. Last year The Eastburger polled a total of 785 points.

First class standing, according to John E. Eckert, staff adviser, is second only to an All-American rating, which is seldom achieved by schools of East Stroudsburg's enrollment.

Judges for the NSPA contest were journalism professors from the University of Minnesota.

Last week the newspaper received a first place award for its news photo coverage by Pennsylvania State College's department of journalism.

Amzie Miller is The Eastburger photographer. He has been responsible for several unique photographic arrangements and a variety of montages featured in the newspaper.

Trucker Given Credit For Aid At Crash Scene

Brodheadsville — Additional credit for assistance at the scene of an accident which occurred at Fern Ridge Sunday morning was given to Emerson Britton, of South St., Mauch Chunk, yesterday.

Britton was the driver of a Lehigh Valley truck, who was among the first to reach the scene of a head-on crash involving Frank Dally, owner of the Blakeslee Inn, and Mr. and Mrs. John Cusick, of Blytheburn, Luzerne county.

Britton managed to untangle the two cars and help remove the Cusicks from their burning car.

A 20-year-old student nurse at Mercy hospital, Wilkes-Barre, on Monday was identified as the nurse who assisted the injured before physicians arrived.

Both the nurse, Miss Marie Claire Hendler, of Kingston, and Britton quietly left the accident area before State troopers arrived.

Belated Decision

Donald S. Dawson has agreed, with President Truman's permission, to testify in the Fulbright Committee's investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

That decision is unfortunately belated. More than nine weeks have passed since Senator Fulbright invited Mr. Dawson, one of the President's administrative assistants, to testify.

It isn't easy to understand why he ignored that invitation, why the President permitted him to ignore it, or why either he or Mr. Truman should have had a moment's doubt as to the right answer to the Committee's later formal request, with which Mr. Dawson now says he gladly will comply on May 10.

The explanation given at the White House is that Mr. Truman required time to weigh carefully the implications of the constitutional separation of executive and congressional powers.

But what the Committee wants to question Mr. Dawson about is his own conduct, not his confidential relationship with the President on the executive policy toward the RFC.

What is offered him was an opportunity to explain, if he could, that he exerted no improper influence on directors of the big Government lending agency and that the Committee had been unfair in naming him as one who did exert influence.

The matter is a legitimate one for congressional inquiry and one about which the public has every right to be fully informed.

The decision Mr. Truman finally make was correct. And if, as a White House spokesman asserts, he made it at Mr. Dawson's request, that is to Mr. Dawson's credit.

But the President should have permitted, or required, him to testify at the earliest possible moment after his name was brought into the investigation.

That could have prevented the growth of what Mr. Dawson's testimony may show to have been an unjust public suspicion—though certainly it became a very strong one—that the President and his administrative assistant both had reasons for not wanting the whole truth about what went on in the RFC to be disclosed.

Labor Walks Out

The Democratic Federal administration in Washington has been having its troubles with labor. Union officials withdrew from the defense agencies in a demand for more say in the proceedings.

The Republican administration in Harrisburg seems to be having similar trouble. Three members of the advisory committee of the State Employment and Unemployment Compensation unit, representing the A.F. of L., CIO and United Mine Workers, have quit.

The Harrisburg dispute revolved around a legislative program being drawn up. Labor wanted a plan to give liberal benefits for partial employment. Employer members of the committee voted the other way and three public members sided with them.

Regardless of the rights and wrongs of these various disputes, these walkout tactics of labor representatives in government units will help neither government nor labor.

They indicate a determination on the part of labor to win all disputes or quit. That would make it necessary to rewrite all the rules of the game, to get the cooperation of labor.

Labor representation on advisory committees is intended to give government the benefit of labor viewpoints. Until lately, nobody thought of it as a guarantee to labor that it will win every dispute. By such walkouts as these, labor may eventually forfeit a large part of its voice in government.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When W. C. Fields was the bright shining star of Ziegfeld's Follies he often tested new sketches at a run-down, fourth-rate vaudeville house in Jersey City. If the patrons laughed at his antics there, it was a safe bet that the act would score equally well on Broadway. By the same token, he discovered via this early version of the "sneak preview" technique what weak spots in his sketches needed bolstering, what airtight stretches were in greatest need of a new laugh line.

After one try-out, Fields mingled with the audience to get some first-hand reactions. One that got under his skin came from a would-be George Jean Nathan with a whiskey breath. He snorted to the world at large, "Did you get a load of that pa-looka trying to imitate W. C. Fields? What a laugh!" Fields grabbed him by the arm and roared, "You paid a dime to get in here and see five acts. That's two cents an act. For two cents do you expect to see a genius like W. C. Fields?"

Hollywood

Hollywood — I found Diana Lynn in the middle of what Grandma used to call a swizz.

She was stepping out that evening to be in the receiving line at a benefit premiere. She'd been running to M-G-M almost daily for wardrobe fittings for her next picture. She was practicing her piano in preparation for TV films, and in between times she was sandwiching drama lessons.

Though at 24 she's a veteran of 10 years in movies, Diana doesn't expect to be a mature actress until she's about 32. Meanwhile she seems to thrive on being hectically busy, or in a swizz, and for getting away from it all she has a nifty retreat.

Her home was designed by her architect husband, John Lindsay. Half of the living-room looks through wall-sized windows at the wooded canyon wall a pebble's toss away. Elephant ears and other greenery grow in an earthy corner of the living room beside the nine-foot-long fireplace.

The rush of activity really started about three months ago, Diana said, momentarily relaxing from it. She wore blue slacks, a white blouse, and a red scarf—but she can look glamorous even while getting a shampoo. I know; I accidentally walked in on her in that sudsy state, while an attendant was hosing off the lather over a big sink, in a studio hairdressing department one day.

"I went to New York to do some television and radio," Diana recalled. "Then to Phoenix for a week to do 'The Voice of the Turtle' with Mel Ferrer—I loved that. I came to pictures without any stage training. When I think of getting a drama lesson in front of 80,000,000 people—she meant, that is, acting in a movie—I shudder."

Then Universal—International sent her on a seven-city personal appearance tour with Bonzo the chimp. Newspaper interviews, press luncheons, radio and TV chats, and stage appearances, kept her in a daily swirl from 8 a. m. till after the next 1 a. m.

While I finished my ginger ale, Diana retired then to change to her evening gown for the premiere. I'm glad I stuck around to see her in this spangly, low-cut creation. Miss Lynn, who combines a shy sweetness with an air of knowing exactly where she's going, looked terrific.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

This is a good time to read Freda Utley's "The China Story," a new book which sets out to establish by facts how the United States lost 400,000,000 ailes.

Freda Utley knows the Far East and has written competently concerning it. She states her conclusions:

"One thing is certain. Communist conquest of a large part of the world since the defeat of Germany and Japan, and the threat of even greater conquests, was not unavoidable. In the first part of this book, I shall show how what we did—and what we failed to do—in the Far East led us straight down the path to war in Korea."

This is a bare-to-the-bone, fact upon account of how the United States, by error and lack of understanding, not only gave China to Soviet Russia but brought the Korean war upon us. In view of the increasing velocity of the quarrel over facts between General Douglas MacArthur and President Truman, it will be advantageous to check what appears among the controversial writers on the subject against Miss Utley's summary of events.

Any understanding of the Far Eastern situation, no matter where one's partisanship lies, must go back to Yalta, the Far Eastern terms of which Miss Utley summarizes as follows:

"One—The 'lease' of Port Arthur to Russia as a naval base; "Two—The 'internationalization' of Dairen with 'pre-eminent rights' for the Soviet Union in this largest of China's northeastern ports;

"Three—The 'joint operation' of the Manchurian railways by China and Russia, with the 'pre-eminent interests' of the Soviet Union safeguarded."

It was in pursuit of the Yalta terms that General Marshall was sent to China to manage, cajole, arrange or force Chiang Kai-Shek to conform to this agreement to which neither he nor China was a party. A memorandum by Secretary of State James Byrnes (1945) on this subject stated: "Pending the outcome of General Marshall's discussions with Chinese leaders in Chungking... further transportation of Chinese troops to North China, except as North China ports may be necessary for the movement of troops and supplies into Manchuria, will be held in abeyance."

In other words, sanctions were imposed upon our ally and friend, Nationalist China, in the interest of Soviet Russia. This appeasement has already resulted in the death of more than 10,500 Americans and more than 62,000 casualties.

General Marshall has never understood either China or Communism. Apparently he could not, even in 1947, grasp the nature of Russian imperialism nor the extent of International Marxism. He seemed to be astonished that Chiang Kai-Shek would not form an alliance with the Communists and, as Miss Utley says, he accepted the Marxist definition of a reactionary. This is what General Marshall declared on January 7, 1947:

"On the side of the National government, which is in effect the Kuomintang, there is a dominant group of reactionaries who have been opposed, in my opinion, to almost every effort I have made to influence the formation of genuine coalition government... they were quite frank in publicly stating that their belief that cooperation by the Chinese Communist party in the government was inconceivable and that only a policy of force could settle the issue."

Miss Utley is a former Communist who has devoted much of her life, at great personal sacrifice, to undo the evils of this party. She says of Russia:

"I first met Owen Lattimore in April 1936 in Moscow, where I had been living for nearly six years as the wife of a Russian (a Soviet citizen but not a member of the Communist party). I was employed as a research worker in the Pacific Ocean section of the Institute of world economy and politics. This institute had become the Russian branch of the Institute of Pacific Relations a year or so earlier when the Kremlin switched over to the 'popular front' policy, and the Communist Academy (of which the Institute formed a part) was rechristened Academy of Sciences. For the benefit of the visiting Americans, a room had been taken in another part of the town and a notice put up saying 'Soviet Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations.' It was here that E. C. Carter, president of the American Institute, and Owen Lattimore were first received by the leading Communists at the Institute. As I had left the Communist party years earlier, I could not attend their private meetings..."

The Garble Sisters

"Did you ever see so many investigations, trials, hearings and reports as now? If we don't find out this time how that witness jumped out of the Coney Island hotel room when six cops were guarding him to see that the Wedemeyer report did not leak out and prove the Joint Chiefs of Staff dropped the Anastasia case, we never will."

"Why should the public be barred from those Washington hearings?"

"I can't figure it out. The people have a right to know whether O'Dwyer went into Mexico against the advice of Marshall and Bradley and why the report was suppressed for four years."

"Do you think there really was a stenographic record taken on Wake Island at the time of the Moran case or that Halley and the committee just made it up from notes?"

"You've got me. If the racketeers had so much power all over the country why shouldn't their privileged sanctuary be bombed like anywhere else no matter what Costello or Adonis thought?"

"The Acheson Committee should have gone into the states where its own members lived. Why did they avoid them?"

"I dunno. It looked funny to show up the mobsters in Chicago, San Francisco and New York and not mention Iran, Murfreesboro, Wake Island and Maryland."

"What did you think of the Vogeler case?"

"Why blame him for not enforcing the gambling laws and naming friends of Erickson to office? He wasn't even in the country at the time."

"Were you surprised at the charges that the Mafia had such a wide influence all over this country?"

"Yes, but how can we wipe out the Mafia if Truman and Acheson won't let us bomb its bases, regardless of what Jessup, Sherman and the Mayor of Saratoga think?"

"New York, Missouri and Florida got a terrific lacing from the MacKefauver Board but how can a watchdog committee do much while the U.N. is negotiating for a cease-fire agreement?"

"The trouble is that a lot of the notes on what happened were taken down in longhand by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and you have got to remember that one of the witnesses just got out of a Hungarian jail and is in no condition to testify."

"We certainly can't put everything into our fight against the Chinese Reds, the Mafia and corruption in Miami at a time when we may be drawn into a battle to have Europe, Saratoga, Dawson and the Mediterranean."

"Right. The whole thing is global just as MacArthur, Mickey Mantle, Leo Durocher and Senator Tobey say."

"There's one thing I want to ask. Do you think the Senate Armed Services committee will question Sherman, who was missing since away back before the Formosa issue ever came up?"

"They got Lee's and Grant's stories; why shouldn't they get his?"

We join with others in deploring the fact that General MacArthur's appearance in Washington is not on television. But we can understand it. The opposition realizes that he goes over so big on the video screens of America, his questioners would have no chance unless they wore low necks and got Milton Berle and Arthur Godfrey into the act.

"Missing Sherman Located; Will Testify"—headline. Maybe he was on his horse across from the Plaza all the time.

A Government agency spent $171,000 to get out a pamphlet on the love life of a pair of raccoons, a Senator reveals. It seems to us that conditions in Washington made a study of squirrel life more logical, and that it could have been done at little cost.

Postmaster General Donaldson admits that the appointment of postmasters by politician preference is an open violation of the very spirit of Civil Service, but says the politicians have been passing on the appointments for so many years that little can be done. How about another new postage stamp, this one to commemorate the first use of the slogan, "It's all done by mirrors?"

Perhaps the Warner Brothers want to get away from it all by settling down someplace where they can see an old-fashioned silent picture.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington — President Truman was pretty sore when Senator Charles Tobey, New Hampshire Republican, recorded two White House telephone conversations.

Mr. Truman is quite happy, however, over the fact that a State department stenographer eavesdropped on his Wake Island conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The President is constantly reminding U.S. voters that he is really two people, one the President, the other an ordinary human with normal human frailties. The fact that it was necessary to secrete a shorthand specialist beside a slatted door to listen in on his talk with Gen. MacArthur, raises the question of which Mr. Truman was present for the vital security talks.

Surely a president of the United States has no need for employing peepholes in the course of conducting public business. Gen. MacArthur, his Senate committee testimony, revealed his desire to have the conversations recorded. He was ignored in favor of the eavesdropping method, a procedure apparently more in keeping with the current behavior approved by the White House.

Nowhere to date, in presidential wise cracks at Gen. MacArthur or in quasi-official "leaks" of secret documents, has there been any explanation of just why the President journeyed to Wake Island for the conference. It is obvious, of course, why the presidential advisor, W. Averill Harriman, and the State department brass went along. They wanted to get something on the General, even though they lacked the courage to walk in and face MacArthur with a normal request to record openly the discussions held on the Island.

To say that this is a new low in the conduct of the office of president of the United States is to jump the gun. The current White House gang isn't through as yet. Somebody thought that the deep freeze scandal reached bottom, until a natural royal pastel mink coat was seen around the White House. I'm sure there will be another climax to this one, too.

Ever since Gen. MacArthur came home to fight, the President has had his political lapdogs scouring the countryside spreading White House propaganda and apologies. The great expert on international diplomacy, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, is one. Tobin says that the fight in Korea has stopped the Communists from "carrying out their plans to seize the rich prizes in southeast Asia."

The "rich prizes" of Asia, of course, actually were handed over to the Communists by the Department of State in February of 1945, at the Yalta conference.

W. Averill Harriman trotted out to the West Coast at taxpayer expense on April 30 to help "explain" Gen. MacArthur's recall. Keeping in mind the use of a stenographer planted behind a slatted door at Wake Island, read this paragraph from Harriman's speech:

"No president in peacetime initiated so many unprecedented and far-reaching measures and actions for our national security as has President Truman."

No one can quarrel with the use of the word unprecedented. There is considerable argument, however, about how far-sighted Mr. Truman has been and in what direction. In fact the quarrel can be reduced to two facts.

The first is that Gen. MacArthur was in Asia and knows what it takes to win in Korea. The other is that our strategy for Asia was decided in Washington, between midnight and dawn, by experts on inside straight and royal flushes, who apparently cleared it with Donald Dawson for political patronage and with Secretary of State Dean Acheson for British approval.

Old Soldiers Never Die

National heroes symbolize national ideals. They are publicly acclaimed and historically enshrined—since their accomplishments represent the aspirations of the people... Although the United States has never glorified militarism, Americans have always had the deepest respect and admiration for our famous warriors. It is significant that the nation's glorious military traditions are rooted in achievements of men whose touchstone was liberty. Americans not only pay homage to their military skill—but the fact that this attribute was a weapon in the battle for decency.

Gen. Robert E. Lee ranks as one of history's most remarkable military leaders. He was a man of superb intelligence and the most profound spiritual faith. He had courage without arrogance; dignity without snobbery. A gentleman in the finest sense of the word who was idolized by his soldiers and respected by his foes... Lee freed his slaves prior to the Civil War. And he did not believe in secession. What he did believe was that separation was better than union and war... So intense was his devotion to democracy that at one time he allowed enlisted men to ELECT their officers!

Typical of his innate decency was this incident: Early in 1865 sensing that the war would soon end, Lee indefinitely postponed the execution of captured Yankee spies.

He was a military genius who put aside his sword after the last shot was fired and practiced the arts of peace. He served as a college president in the post-war era at a $1500 annual fee—simply out of a desire to render public service... His greatest triumphs came after the war. Lee devoted his life to eradicating the bitterness that had split the nation. He was the living spirit of Lincoln's phrase: "With malice toward none..." When he was attacked for forgiving his enemies, Lee replied simply: "I have never seen the day when I did not pray for them."

Teddy Roosevelt was a soldier in the dashing, heroic tradition. A flamboyant warrior—as courageous as he was colorful, Roosevelt insisted on sharing every risk of the Rough Riders who galloped with him... And he reminded the people of his military glory when he returned to the political wars. While campaigning for New York's Governorship, he circled the speech circuit wearing his famous military sombrero and was accompanied by a half-dozen Rough Riders in full uniform. Before addressing voters, a bugler would appear to sound the cavalry charge.

Gen. Grant's weakness for alcohol is as well known as his military exploits. It stemmed from an inferiority complex. At one time he was forced to resign from the Army after a guzzling spree... Despite the legends, Grant kept his drinking habit under control during the Civil War. His success as a military commander banished the feeling of inferiority and inspired temperance. His drinking habits during the war were greatly exaggerated by jealous enemies... There is a famous story that when Lincoln heard the rumors about Grant's alcoholism, he quipped: "Well, I wish some of you would tell me what brand of whiskey Grant drinks. I would like to send a barrel of it to my other generals."

It never happened. The yarn was invented by a reporter for the New York Herald.

Andy Jackson never forgot that he was a soldier. A pair of six-shooters was standard equipment with him. He carried his shootin-4rons while he was President and once used them against a man who insulted the First Lady.

Generals have emerged from every American war (except one) as the most famous soldiers of the conflict. The most popular warrior of World War I was a Sergeant—Alvin York.

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

On my desk are two letters.

One is from a lieutenant, now a patient at the U. S. Air Force Hospital, Wright Field, Ohio.

The other comes from Zagreb, Yugoslavia, and was sent by a fellow who is studying to be, as he calls it, "an honest lawyer."

On the surface these letters are entirely unrelated.

But, upon closer study, they are closely connected.

The lieutenant, apparently a flier, came back from Korea, wounded.

He is bitter. Bitter against God, bitter against the administration, bitter against the American people—his countrymen—for their apathy and their complete lack of unity.

"Are we to fall as did glorious Athens," he writes, "divided, quibbling, oblivious of the battles being fought, literally on our stoop? Men die horribly while the populace sleeps, peacefully."

In a previous letter he had told me about the feeling of futility and being let down by God and his fellow Americans—a feeling that had gripped so many of our soldiers and sailors who were lying sick and maimed in that hospital.

I had answered him begging him not to be bitter and I had asked him "Doesn't God ever come to your hospital?"

"To me that was a very perplexing question," he replies, "for, and I am not proud of it, I have become an agnostic."

"God is a perpetual subject of discussion around here. There are many, too many religious and anti-religious fanatics running about, all trying to impress you—and, for me, they add to the confusion."

"I don't know now what to believe. Actually I believe that faith and the acceptance of God must come from within the person, and all the books and preaching in the world cannot give it to him. As yet I don't have it."

Here is part of the other letter. It is so typical of what is going on. It is so illustrative of why so many of our fighters and our civilian people have lost their faith in our leaders.

And when you lose your faith in your temporal leaders you are also apt to lose your faith in the leader of us all.

This fellow in Yugoslavia, who says he is "6 feet and 4 inches high and rather strong," cannot afford to buy the clothes he needs and the food he thinks he ought to have. So—

"In your home or in the homes of your friends there is certainly a quantity of used clothing; suits, coats, overcoats, shirts, underwear, shoes, jackets, hats, etc., you and your friends do not need anymore. Please make an effort to help me; assemble all these things and send them to me. By doing this you will help me immensely, you will enable me to finish my studies."

He doesn't ask just for one suit, one pair of shoes, one hat. No, like most of those people over there, he wants a whole collection of things—although at least he does not ask for a mink coat, a deep freezer, an automobile.

Perhaps he wants to open a store or sell the stuff to our enemies. But why not—aren't the others over there doing the same things?

Why not? Haven't we gained the reputation all over the universe of being the world's greatest suckers?

What if thousands and thousands of our own people can barely make ends meet? What if prices are rising to a point where rationing is not at all necessary. Our POKETBOOK has become our RATIONING BOOK.

Could THAT be one of the reasons why those fellows in the hospital and over in Korea have become bitter and lost their faith in God and Country?

Could be.

Little Change In Condition Of Ralph Sommers

SFC Ralph Sommers, who was rushed from Camp Atterbury, Ind., to Valley Forge hospital last week, was reported "holding his own" last night.

His father, William H. Sommers, of 117 S. Eighth St., Stroudsburg, said he had been informed his son's condition was not any worse, than it had been over the weekend.

At that time doctors told the infantryman's parents his condition was very serious.

Sommers contacted a cold shortly before Easter. It grew steadily worse until he had to be moved to the Valley Forge hospital, where more extensive facilities were available.

He was the son of Mrs. Arlington Kitchen, of Pen Argyl, and the late Arlington Kitchen.

Born in Belvidere, N. J., he made his home in the Slate Belt area for 47 years. He held memberships in Veterans of Foreign Wars, Elks and Eagles organizations in Bangor.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Elsie Kitchen; his mother, three daughters, Mrs. Harry Sargent and Mrs. Richard Pritchard, both of Wind Gap; Mrs. Charles Weidman, of Bangor; a son, William, Pen Argyl; a sister, Mrs. Lloyd Dave, Easton, and three grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Stoddard funeral home with Rev. Dr. J. Frederick Stolte, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in the Wind Gap cemetery.

Gasoline service stations in Pennsylvania have an annual sales volume of 360 million dollars, according to the Census Bureau.

Magazine Devotes Large Amount Of Space To Story, Photos Of Camp Karamac

The fame of the Pocono Mountains, its Delaware Water Gap region and Camp Karamac in particular has won seven pages of public relations in this week's issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

A special feature article by Pete Martin, one of The Post's most able writers, deals with Camp Karamac and the region it occupies on the east bank of the Delaware River opposite Minisink Hills.

Mr. Martin, in an article entitled "Every Girl For Herself," develops an interesting and most readable story about the famous resort operated by Arthur Feindt and George Neumarker, co-owners of the camp.

A guest's-eye view of life at Camp Karamac, plus observations and reconstruction of experiences there are all set down by Mr. Martin with eight large camp scenes in color to get the extensive article under way for the reader.

Gus Pasquarella, Saturday Evening Post photographer, made all the photos used with the article.

State police of the Mount Pocono substation said the parked truck was the property of Walter Dutler, of Mount Pocono, while Newkirk Henry, of Cresco, was identified as the owner of the parked sedan.

The station wagon was the property of Albert Ghiz, Mount Pocono businessman.

According to report, the truck operated by Lupinski smashed into the Dutler truck which, in turn, was forced into Henry's sedan. Impact of the chain collision was still sufficient to force the sedan into the station wagon, police stated.

Investigating officers said Lupinski will be charged with reckless driving.

ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING

The difference goes more than Skin-Deep

Nobody wonders what you're driving when you roll by in this one.

In the 1951 line-up, its brand-new front-end styling stands out with a beauty all its own.

You're the proud owner of a Buick—and the whole world knows it.

But you—at the wheel—enjoy a long list of differences that go far deeper than looks.

The ride is different—level and true. You sit the road with special assurance—because Buick's torque-tube drive keeps rear wheels firmly aligned—soft coil springs on all four wheels soak up the bumps and bobbles—honest weight keeps you on a steady keel.

The power is different—eager and sure. Buick's high-compression Fireball engine does wonders with fuel—and no matter what you demand in emergency, there's horsepower to spare.

Handling is different—this car seems to steer itself on straightaway or curve—and swings lightly into parking spots inches shorter than you'd think you need.

Capping it all, there's the silken versatility of Dynaflo Drive,* that takes all the tenseness out of driving—responds to your slightest wish with a surging swoop of power.

No doubt about it, what you get in a Buick is far more than just a new car—it's a whole new experience in getting pleasurably from here to there.

So why not explore this difference? Come, take a Buick over and find out how very much satisfaction smart money can buy.

The Daily Record's Home And Building Page

Full Economy Effected By New Heaters

Postwar developments in home heating systems should be investigated by every home owner, it was urged by engineers for the Construction Research Bureau of New York, clearing house for building information.

Virtually all the new furnaces, whether they burn oil, coal or gas, have been designed to produce maximum heat with a minimum of fuel. Many home owners discovered last winter that by replacing old burners with modern equipment they effected substantial fuel savings. When accompanied by full-thick mineral wool insulation of the house, such savings amounted to more than 50 per cent bureau engineers said.

One of the outstanding postwar developments is radiant heat supplied by hot water pipes embedded in floors or ceilings. This gives a constant, uniform heat and is widely used in homes with out basement.

Another idea used extensively is to equip warm air furnaces with mechanical blowers to force cool air through the ducts during the summer. In winter, the same blower is used to heat the house with a minimum amount of fuel.

One of the most novel postwar ideas, brought on by recurring fuel shortages, is a furnace that will burn oil or coal interchangeably.

How To Figure Paint Needs

You estimate the amount of paint gallonage required for the walls of a room by multiplying the length of the room by the height, and doubling the total (for the two walls). Then you learn the area of the other two walls by multiplying the width of the room by the height, then doubling your total.

The two totals added together give you the number of square feet in all four walls. This figure, divided by the number of square feet covered by a gallon, will give you the quantity you need for one coat. A gallon of flat oil paint will cover approximately 630 square feet; casein and emulsion paints, about 540.

Mortar Joints Require Sulphate

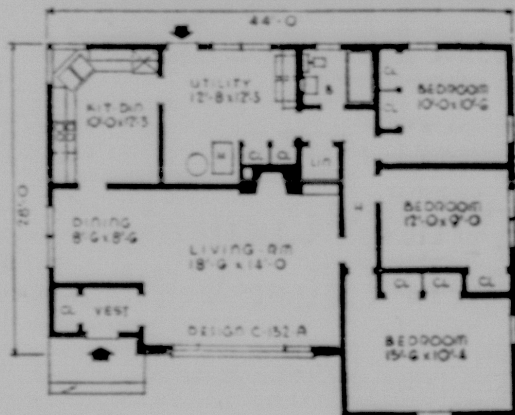

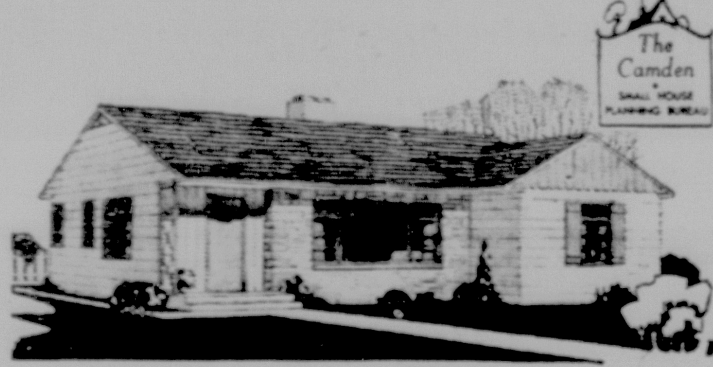

Before being coated with oil paint, the mortar joints in all new brick, cement and concrete surfaces require a preliminary treatment. This treatment may be a solution of zinc sulphate which is made by dissolving two pounds of zinc sulphate crystals in a gallon of water. Before this solution is applied, the surface has to be brushed to remove any loose mortar or foreign substances. Such a solution need not be applied if the masonry has been exposed to the weather for six months or more.

Protect Plumbing

If it is impossible to drain plumbing traps in houses that are to be unoccupied during the winter, they can be protected from damage from freezing by diluting the water in them with kerosene.

Side Porch Popular

One in three home owners prefers a front porch; two in three would rather have the porch at the side or back of the house.

THE CAMDEN, an attractive frame house, has three bedrooms, bath, combination living-dining room, kitchen with dining space and a utility room to replace the basement.

The utility room has coat and storage closets and space for laundry and heating equipment, using the fireplace chimney.

Closets are provided in the vestibule, kitchen and utility room, linen in the hall and wardrobe closets in the bedrooms.

Other features include picture window, covered entrance, book shelves beside fireplace and corner sink.

Exterior finish of the Camden is wide siding and asphalt shingles. The front wall is faced with either stone or brick.

Dimensions of this house are 44 feet by 34 feet overall. The floor area totals 1,319 square feet, while the cubage amounts to 1,319 cubic feet.

For further information about THE CAMDEN, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Liberal Figures In Estimating

In estimating the quantity of paint needed for the outside of a house it is better to figure liberally than to run short of material.

For this reason no deduction is made for the area of windows and doors.

The number of square feet of surface to be covered is determined by measuring in feet the distance around the house and multiplying by the height in feet to the eaves line.

The area of a gable is found by multiplying the width of its base line by half of the height from base line to peak. Add this to area of the outside walls.

Cornices, trim and other extra details usually call for about one-sixth of the quantity of paint needed for the main part of the house.

Wood First Stained For Natural Finish

To obtain a so-called "natural finish," wood is first stained to bring out all the natural beauty of the grain. There are, then, several types of finishes from which to choose. Pine or birch may be sheathed, then waxed. If an oil finish is desired, boiled linseed oil is rubbed into the wood and the process is repeated periodically.

Wood may also be stained in a cedar tone and left to dry. After the stain is dry, it can be brushed with thin, putty-toned oil paint and wiped with gauze while it is still wet. This method leaves paint in the soft grain of the wood only—the cedar tone appears through the harder surface. Over this, a coating of flat varnish and a finishing coat of wax provide a lustrous effect.

Roof Coating Material Uses

Asbestos or fibrous roof coating is used as a preservative and a preventive. It is especially suitable for patch work and for stopping leaks on roofs. Inasmuch as asbestos roof coating is a waterproofing material, it is sometimes used for waterproofing the walls of a basement or any foundation. This material will prevent the rusting of gutters, spoutings and flashings when they have been properly primed with rust inhibitive paint.

Churches Press Fight Against Track Proposal

Survey Calls For Raceway Near Churches

Gilbert — Both the Lutheran and Evangelical and Reformed church governing bodies here have voted to continue protest against construction of a stock-car racing track on the Carolina Ranch property immediately adjacent both churches.

Meeting earlier this week, the council of Salem Lutheran church here and the consistory of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church reaffirmed their decision to press their protest against the proposed track proximity of both church properties.

Members of both official bodies were advised that the track as it now allegedly surveyed would come within 35 feet of one of the church buildings.

Rev. James R. Laubach, pastor of the Lutheran church, was chairman of the meeting. Rev. Alton P. Albright, Reformed church minister, led in the opening prayer.

Reports received at the meeting showed that some 300 persons from the West End region have added their names to the protests against erection of the track at the present location.

Several civic groups have already voiced opposition and others are being contacted relative to similar action.

This Sunday at 3 p.m. there will be a meeting of key persons from the West End region in the Salem Reformed church in order to hear reports from representatives and interested persons and groups.

Civic clubs, service clubs, school districts, churches and citizens generally will be present together with representatives of Wilkes-Barre Conference of the Lutheran denomination and the East Pennsylvania Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church.

It is estimated that the average term spent in jail by major criminals in the United States is five years and two months.

West End Fair Association Opposes Track; Secretary Retires After Long Tenure

Gilbert—Members of the West End Fair association last night voiced a unanimous protest against the proposed construction of a half-mile hard clay stock car speedway near the Evangelical and Reformed church here.

The protest motion was made by Christie A. Truitt during a meeting of the association last night in the Women's Guild hall. In other business James Shiffer, who after 22 years service as association secretary has been forced to resign due to ill health, was elected secretary emeritus.

A motion was also passed to erect a new hog stable on the fair grounds to provide better facilities for the animals.

Appointment Of Authority Members Expected Soon

No definite time has yet been set for organization of the proposed East Stroudsburg sewer authority, but snooksmen for the borough council said yesterday that it's understood that paper work for the establishment of the five-member board will be completed as soon as the posts are filled.

Members of the council and prospective members of the sewer authority heard Claude Fogelman, borough secretary and authority secretary of the borough of Northampton, discuss municipal authorities at an informal meeting Monday night in the east borough council chambers.

Fogelman, who also is secretary of the State authority association, confined his remarks to an explanation of authority structure and recommendations as to procedure which the East Stroudsburg group may follow.

Those attending the meeting were Carl T. Secor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg schools; Dr. Fred Jones, east borough physician; Horace G. Walters, 751 Milford Rd., and Charles Heck, 233 E. Brown St.

Also, Councilmen Jack A. Wyckoff, Roy F. Lloyd, Verdon T. Gilliland, Council President Harold A. Wiggins, Chief Burgess L. J. Kleinle, Atty. Charles R. Bensinger and Borough Secretary Sterling Cramer.

Community Chest campaigns throughout the country in 1949 raised $188 million.

Local Groups Give Concert At Portland

Portland — A spring concert at the Portland Methodist church sponsored by the Youth Fellowship featured musical groups from the Stroudsburgs including a brass quartet from the East Stroudsburg Methodist church and the Madrigal group from Stroudsburg High school under the direction of Numa Snyder.

Miss Harriet Wagner, first commissioner of the fellowship, was in charge of the opening devotions; Barry Transue of the scripture reading and James Wagner of the prayer.

The brass quartet played two groups of numbers including "The Holy Saviour," "Holy City," "Breathe on Me Breath of God," and "We Would See Jesus." John Eaton played Beethoven's "Second Movement from the Pathétique Sonata" as a piano solo.

The madrigal group sang three groups: "Jacob's Ladder," "Let Us Break Bread Together," and "Babe Jesus;" "Now Let Us Lift Our Youthful Voices;" "Under the Greenwood Tree;" "Sweet and Twenty;" "Early One Morning" and "Now the Day is Over."

The benediction was given by Rev. Merritt Godshalk, and the offering will be used to send young people to the Pocono Institute.

It is estimated that a person perspires an average of 1.43 pints every day.

Then you learn the area of the other two walls by multiplying the width of the room by the height, then doubling your total.

The two totals added together give you the number of square feet in all four walls. This figure, divided by the number of square feet covered by a gallon, will give you the quantity you need for one coat. A gallon of flat oil paint will cover approximately 630 square feet; casein and emulsion paints, about 540.

Mortar Joints Require Sulphate

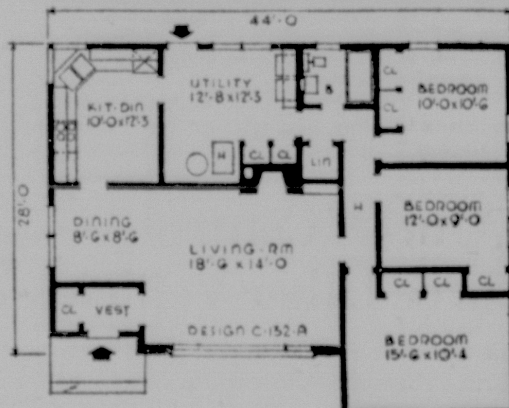

Before being coated with oil paint, the mortar joints in all new brick, cement and concrete surfaces require a preliminary treatment. This treatment may be a solution of zinc sulphate which is made by dissolving two pounds of zinc sulphate crystals in a gallon of water. Before this solution is applied, the surface has to be brushed to remove any loose mortar or foreign substances. Such a solution need not be applied if the masonry has been exposed to the weather for six months or more.

Protect Plumbing

If it is impossible to drain plumbing traps in houses that are to be unoccupied during the winter, they can be protected from damage from freezing by diluting the water in them with kerosene.

Side Porch Popular

One in three home owners prefers a front porch; two in three would rather have the porch at the side or back of the house.

THE CAMDEN, an attractive frame house, has three bedrooms, bath, combination living-dining room, kitchen with dining space and a utility room to replace the basement.

The utility room has coat and storage closets and space for laundry and heating equipment, using the fireplace chimney.

Closets are provided in the vestibule, kitchen and utility room, linen in the hall and wardrobe closets in the bedrooms.

Other features include picture window, covered entrance, book shelves beside fireplace and corner sink.

Exterior finish of the Camden is wide siding and asphalt shingles. The front wall is faced with either stone or brick.

Dimensions of this house are 44 feet by 34 feet overall. The floor area totals 1,319 square feet, while the cubage amounts to 1,319 cubic feet.

For further information about THE CAMDEN, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Liberal Figures In Estimating

In estimating the quantity of paint needed for the outside of a house it is better to figure liberally than to run short of material.

For this reason no deduction is made for the area of windows and doors.

The number of square feet of surface to be covered is determined by measuring in feet the distance around the house and multiplying by the height in feet to the eaves line.

The area of a gable is found by multiplying the width of its base line by half of the height from base line to peak. Add this to area of the outside walls.

Cornices, trim and other extra details usually call for about one-sixth of the quantity of paint needed for the main part of the house.

Wood First Stained For Natural Finish

To obtain a so-called "natural finish", wood is first stained to bring out all the natural beauty of the grain. There are, then, several types of finishes from which to choose. Pine or birch may be shellacked, then waxed. If an oil finish is desired, boiled linseed oil is rubbed into the wood and the process is repeated periodically.

Wood may also be stained in a cedar tone and left to dry. After the stain is dry, it can be brushed with thin, putty-toned oil paint and wiped with gauze while it is still wet. This method leaves paint in the soft grain of the wood only—the cedar tone appears through the harder surface. Over this, a coating of flat varnish and a finishing coat of wax provide a lustrous effect.

Roof Coating Material Uses

Asbestos or fibrous roof coating is used as a preservative and a preventive. It is especially suitable for patch work and for stopping leaks on roofs. Inasmuch as asbestos roof coating is a waterproofing material, it is sometimes used for waterproofing the walls of a basement or any foundation. This material will prevent the rusting of gutters, spoutings and flashings when they have been properly primed with rust inhibitive paint.

Churches Press Fight Against Track Proposal

Survey Calls For Raceway Near Churches

Gilbert — Both the Lutheran and Evangelical and Reformed church governing bodies here have voted to continue protest against construction of a stock-car racing track on the Carolina Ranch property immediately adjacent both churches.

Meeting earlier this week, the council of Salem Lutheran church here and the consistory of Salem Evangelical and Reformed church reaffirmed their decision to press their protest against the proposed track proximity of both church properties.

Members of both official bodies were advised that the track as it now allegedly surveyed would come within 35 feet of one of the church buildings.

Rev. James R. Laubach, pastor of the Lutheran church, was chairman of the meeting. Rev. Alton P. Albright, Reformed church minister, led in the opening prayer.

Reports received at the meeting showed that some 300 persons from the West End region have added their names to the protests against erection of the track at the present location.

Several civic groups have already voiced opposition and others are being contacted relative to similar action.

This Sunday at 3 p.m. there will be a meeting of key persons from the West End region in the Salem Reformed church in order to hear reports from representatives and interested persons and groups.

Civic clubs, service clubs, school districts, churches and citizens generally will be present together with representatives of Wilkes-Barre Conference of the Lutheran denomination and the East Pennsylvania Synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church.

It is estimated that the average term spent in jail by major criminals in the United States is five years and two months.

West End Fair Association Opposes Track; Secretary Retires After Long Tenure

Gilbert—Members of the West End Fair association last night voiced a unanimous protest against the proposed construction of a half-mile hard clay stock car speedway near the Evangelical and Reformed church here.

The protest motion was made by Christie A. Truitt during a meeting of the association last night in the Women's Guild hall.

In other business James Shiffer, who after 22 years service as association secretary has been forced to resign due to ill health, was elected secretary emeritus.

A motion was also passed to erect a new hog stable on the fair grounds to provide better facilities for the animals.

Appointment Of Authority Members Expected Soon

No definite time has yet been set for organization of the proposed East Stroudsburg sewer authority, but spokesmen for the borough council said yesterday that it's understood that paper work for the establishment of the five-member board will be completed as soon as the posts are filled.

Members of the council and prospective members of the sewer authority heard Claude Fogelman, borough secretary and authority secretary of the borough of Northampton, discuss municipal authorities at an informal meeting Monday night in the east borough council chambers.

Fogelman, who also is secretary of the State authority association, confined his remarks to an explanation of authority structure and recommendations as to procedure which the East Stroudsburg group may follow.

Those attending the meeting were Carl T. Secor, supervising principal of East Stroudsburg schools; Dr. Fred Jones, east borough physician; Horace G. Walters, 751 Millford Rd., and Charles Heck, 233 E. Brown St.

Also, Councilmen Jack A. Wyckoff, Roy F. Lloyd, Verdon T. Gilliland, Council President Harold A. Wiggins, Chief Burgess L. J. Kleinle, Atty. Charles R. Bensinger and Borough Secretary Sterling Cramer.

Community Chest campaigns throughout the country in 1949 raised $188 million.

Local Groups Give Concert At Portland

Portland — A spring concert at the Portland Methodist church sponsored by the Youth Fellowship featured musical groups from the Stroudsburgs including a brass quartet from the East Stroudsburg Methodist church and the Madrigal group from Stroudsburg High school under the direction of Numa Snyder.

Miss Harriet Wagner, first commissioner of the fellowship, was in charge of the opening devotions; Barry Transue of the scripture reading and James Wagner of the prayer.

The brass quartet played two groups of numbers including "The Holy Saviour," "Holy City," "Breathe on Me Breath of God," and "We Would See Jesus." John Eaton played Beethoven's "Second Movement from the Pathétique Sonata" as a piano solo.

The madrigal group sang three groups: "Jacob's Ladder," "Let Us Break Bread Together," and "Babe Jesus." "Now Let Us Lift Our Youthful Voices;" "Under the Greenwood Tree;" "Sweet and Twenty;" "Early One Morning" and "Now the Day is Over."

The benediction was given by Rev. Merritt Godshalk, and the offering will be used to send young people to the Pocono Institute.

It is estimated that a person perspires an average of 1.43 pints every day.

Rhodes Denies Bail To Wink Pending Plea

President Judge Chester H. Rhodes of Pennsylvania's Superior court has filed an opinion denying bail on an appeal filed by Robert W. Wink, Weissport funeral director, who was convicted last January on charges of rape and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Wink was sentenced to serve from two and a half to five years following his conviction in the Carbon County court last January 15. He was released in $5,000 bail pending application for a new trial.

The trial was denied by President Judge James G. McGready of Carbon County courts and Wink was sent to Eastern Penitentiary.

Several days ago Judge Rhodes was asked to set bail pending an appeal to that court. The bail application was refused in Judge Rhodes' opinion.

Thomas B. McBride, Philadelphia, counsel for Wink, said in the bail application that District Attorney Carl A. Neihoff stated he Pennsylvania Traffic Safety Record Leads U. S. A.

CAR INSPECTION IMPORTANT FACTOR

New Inspection Period Starts May 1st Ends July 31, 1951

There is a direct connection between highway safety and car inspection

Pennsylvania's twice-yearly checking of your car's "danger spots" makes your car four times safer to drive. Safety statistics prove this... up to 18% of fatal traffic accidents in America are attributed to mechanical failure of cars—compared to less than 4% in Pennsylvania. Twice each year official inspection checks:

- BRAKES—1. Stopping distance. 2. Lining and brake drum. 3. Emergency brake. 4. Line and cylinders. 5. Ruds and clevis pins.
- TIRES—1. For exposed breaker strip or cord fabric. 2. For cuts and bruises. 3. For ruptured casings.
- GLASS—1. Windshield, side windows and rear window glass for cracks or breaks. 2. For discoloration.
- MIRROR—1. For proper mounting and clear vision.
- HORN—1. Press horn button. Horn must be audible for at least 200 feet.
- EXHAUST MUFFLER AND PIPES—1. Muffler, manifold and pipe for leaks or loose connections.
- REGISTRATION—1. Serial and registration plate numbers against owner's card. 2. Unobstructed view of license plates.
- STEERING AND WHEELS—1. Front and wheel alignment, spindle, bushings and pins. 2. Steering wheel for excessive play. 3. Main shaft. 4. Cross shaft. 5. Steering rod and ball sockets. 6. Pitman arm. 7. Shock absorbers.
- LIGHTS—1. Headlights for beam candle power... for aiming and proper distribution of light. 2. Tail and stop lamps. 3. All lighting equipment on car must work.
- WINDSHIELD WIPERS—1. Hand or automatic for efficiency. 2. All rubber parts including hose and fittings.

Get an early start for safe summer driving. Have your car inspected in May. You will not be permitted to drive without this "inspected and approved" sticker after July 31, 1951.

MAKE SURE YOUR CAR IS SAFE... THEN DRIVE IT SAFELY

PMA Appeals For Greater Corn Output

In a final appeal to Monroe county farmers before the 1951 corn crop is planted, the Monroe County Production and Marketing administration said yesterday that, although the time is short, there is still time to change plans in favor of increased corn acreage.

Commenting on the situation, David H. Griffith, county PMA chairman said: "I am sure that, if farmers realized the seriousness of the situation, they would step up corn production wherever possible."

Robert Warner, vice-chairman, of Pocono Lake, and Chris Sautter, member, of Kunkletown RD 2, voiced agreement with the chairman.

"Livestock production is at or near a record level and is accompanied by a near record consumption of grains," they said. "Actually more feed is needed than will probably be produced," they declared, adding that the high level of livestock is necessary to meet civilian and military needs and to control against inflation.

To maintain the needed production of meats, there must be feed for the stock, the three board members reasoned.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Almost as bad as a tune that goes around and around in your head and never finishes itself, is a line from a poem that you can't complete. All day long it's been "When lilacs last in the dooryard bloomed—" and no place to go from there.

Wouldn't be so bad except the lilacs themselves keep intruding in your consciousness at every fresh gust of wind. Wherever you are—even on Main St.—you can get a whiff of lilacs.

Except on Lower Main St., where it isn't lilacs you can smell. But then this enthusiasm for the spring isn't all roses, either, and there's many a case of poison ivy making its victims miserable.

There's one thing about poison ivy, you don't worry about anything else while you have it. Not even about what line comes next in what poem.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:05 a.m.

Judge Davis Appoints Five To Price School Board

Successors To Resigned Board Named

President Judge Fred W. Davis yesterday appointed a panel of five Price township residents to serve as directors of the school district until the first Monday of December.

The court's action appointing a temporary school board in the township follows the mass resignation of the elected board which quit April 9 in the face of dissension over financing plans for 1951-52 school year.

The residents appointed to serve as temporary directors comprises Jacob Weidman, Newton D. Cramer, John W. Price, C. Vernon Bush and Frank E. Halstead.

They replace Clarence A. Lesoine, Justin Cramer, Layton H. Brush, Austin Brush and Ervin W. Gross, the five resigned directors.

The former board filed their resignations with the county court, the next responsible authority in the event of mass resignation of the directors. Had any of the directors remained in office, resignations would have been submitted to them or him.

Under law, the court was required to wait for a period at least 10 days before appointing a temporary board to serve until after another board is duly elected in the next general elections.

The board appointed yesterday will serve seven months and then yield to a board to be elected at the polls in November.

The Price directors conduct the 17-student Lesoine school, one of the few one-room schools left in the county, and the only one in the sparsely populated township.

The dispute over educational matters was touched off in March when a group of taxpayers urged the board to increase the assessed valuation of properties in the township in order to obtain sufficient funds for operating next year.

Another controversial point was a move to close the school in the face of increased operating costs, and to transport all Price pupils to schools in other districts.

Sportsmen Want Section Of Pocono Creek Set Aside As Fishing Spot For Children

A project to set up that section of Pocono creek extending from rear of Haynes garage to Pocono creek bridge, W. Main St., as a fishing area for youngsters only is being prosecuted by the Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's association.

Already approved by membership of the senior group, the cooperation of borough authorities, school officials and Pennsylvania Fish commission will be sought to get the project under way.

Special stocking for the youngsters would follow a project handled by Junior Sportsmen to "make their own stream" ready for the stocking program.

Water is excellent for trout. It is close to heavily populated areas, eliminating necessity of transportation, and is not too deep which is ideal for fishing by youngsters.

Don't blame the butcher for the price of meat

Compare the cost of your telephone service with the cost of other things, and you'll agree that telephone service is a bargain.

Take your household expenses, for example. What you pay for vegetables, fruit, and meat for a single day is probably more than you pay for a full month of telephone service.

Don't blame the grocer or the butcher. Blame the dollar. In terms of what it will buy, the dollar is worth less today than ever before.

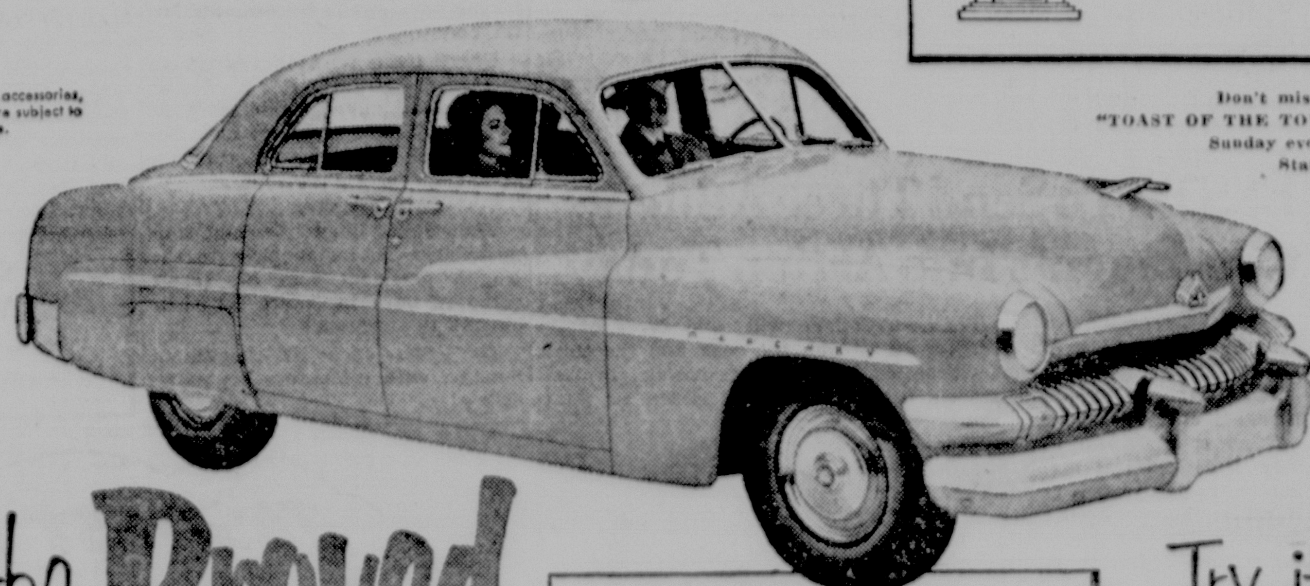

The dollar is pinching us, too. The cost of running the telephone household has been going up and up.

In spite of all this, we have been able to provide good telephone service at low cost. This hasn't been easy. But even if it should cost more, your telephone service, in comparison with other things, would still be a bargain.

Three Runs In Ninth Enables East Stroudsburg To Win

Nazareth Halted On Two Hits By Steele

Ray Steele pitched two-hit ball and East Stroudsburg High registered its first baseball victory of the season here at East Stroudsburg Playground yesterday, but it took three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to turn the tide of battle, 6-5. The Cavaliers have lost two and tied one contest thus far this season.

Steele limited the usually hard hitting Nazareth club to a pair of singles, but six errors by his supporting cast, plus five free tickets to first, enabled the visiting contingent to come within an ace of winning the contest.

However, it was also six errors by the Nazareth club that prevented Dick Keglowski from hanging out the victory flag, although he was touched for ten safeties.

East Stroudsburg pushed across one run in the third, only to have Nazareth take a 2-1 edge in the fifth, with the help of two glaring errors.

The charges of Coach Jack Kist came back with two more tallies in the sixth and held that edge to move into the ninth and last round on the long end of a 3-2 count. However, Nazareth came up with three quick runs to hold a 5-3 lead going into the bottom of the final stanza.

Winning Rally
However, the spirited East Stroudsburg contingent refused to call it quits and fought right back with three runs of its own in the home stretch and they proved enough to win the ball game.

Reliable John "Juice" Arnet came through in his favorite pinch hitting role with a single to open the frame and Dick Mering was safe at second when Paul "Candy" Miller's grounder was tossed to second in an attempt to force the pinch-runner. However, the ball was dropped and all hands were safe. Leo Dailey fled out, but Harold Little drew a life on an error. Don France, batting for Cramer, went down on strikes but Marlin "Ducky" Martz came through with a single to drive across the winning run.

Steele fanned 11 batters and walked five, in addition to banging out two hits, including the only double of the ball game.

East Stroudsburg returns to action on Friday, when the Cavaliers are listed to oppose Pen Argyl, on the latter's home field, at 4 p.m.

Feller Scalded In Club House

Cleveland, (AP) — Pitcher Bob Feller scalded himself on the torso and legs yesterday while squirting near-boiling water into a whirlpool bath in the Cleveland Indians' club house.

But an hour later Bob was laughing about it and the Indians were assured by the club physician, Dr. Don Kelly, that their $50,000 chucker would not be out of the lineup for more than a week at most.

Workout

Feller had just completed a workout of running and throwing in Municipal Stadium, trying to shake off a muscle spasm in the small of his back. To wind up the day, he started pouring water into the bath.

Yankees Drop Second Straight To Tigers In Eleven Frames

Detroit (AP) — Vic Wertz tried to duck a pitched ball in the eleventh inning but it struck his bat and bounced into left field yesterday for a game-winning single as the Detroit Tigers licked the league-leading New York Yankees, 6-5.

The fluke single handed rookie pitcher Ray Herbert his fourth straight victory as a relief pitcher without a defeat. Allie Reynolds who went the distance, took his second loss against one victory.

New York's "Hank" Bauer, making his first start, belted two homers. Teammate Jackie Jensen smacked his fifth of the season.

TTHS Gains Verdict Over Coolbaugh, 6-5

Poccano Pines—Tobyhanna Township High school won its second game in three starts in the northern division of the Monroe County League here yesterday, with a 6-5 decision over Coolbaugh High, on the winning team's home field.

Each team came up with three runs in the third frame and two in the seventh, but the TTHS forces were fortunate enough to push one run into pay dirt in the fourth frame and it proved to be the winning tally.

The victory was the second of the season over Coolbaugh by the charges of Coach Jack Smith. Coolbaugh has yet to win a contest in circuit play.

Both teams have one game remaining. Coolbaugh plays host to Barrett on Friday, while Tobyhanna Township plays at Barrett next Tuesday to wind up the season.

Both games are scheduled for 2 p. m.

Pirates Down Phillies, 9-3

Philadelphia (AP) — Mel Queen handcuffed the Philadelphia Phillies with two hits for seven innings last night while the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded Ken Heintzelman and Milo Candini for 10 and defeated the National League champions 9-3. One of the Pirates' blows was a homer by Ralph Kiner.

Queen issued seven passes and began to show signs of weakening in the seventh. In the eighth he was relieved by Bill Werle as the Phils counted three times, twice after Bill Werle took over the mound duties.

Changes Lineup
Manager Billy Meyer shook up the Pittsburgh lineup, sending Wally Westlake to third base for the first time in 10 years. Westlake was charged with one error in handling seven chances.

Fourteen Hits
The Yankees, who had their eight-game winning streak ended Monday by the Tigers, smashed 14 hits off four pitchers.

But their highly-touted rookie, Mickey Mantle, went hitless in six tries. Mantle, who walked and sacrificed to get on base twice, had 12 hits in his last 25 times at bat before yesterday.

The Tigers came from behind three times to tie the score. Kell punched a double in the seventh inning to score pinch-hitter Don Kolloway from third and the score 5-5.

Bauer's second homer with no one aboard had put the Yankees in front in the first half of the seventh.

In the sixth the Yanks scored when Phil Rizzuto tripled home two runs. But the Tigers came right back with three runs to tie it up, two coming on Wertz's

Wrestling Card Announced

A 60-minute limit one-fall match between Benito Gardini, known to followers of the mat game as the "Little Flower" and George Macriocostas, better known as the "Golden Greek" will headline the coming wrestling carnival to be held at the East Stroudsburg High school gymnasium on Thursday, May 17, it was announced last night. The show, being staged for the second time by the Lions Club of the Stroudsburgs, will begin promptly at 8:30.

Gardini, one of the newer entries into the private circle of top grunting-and-groaning artists, has gained the reputation of being one of the roughest and toughest grapplers in the business today. Gardini enjoys the outstanding distinction of having wrestled to a draw with Argentine Rocco, lately regarded as tops in the sport.

The Gardini-Macriocostas red-letter number will close the show and will be supported by an outstanding list of wrestlers, some of which are almost a household word with television owners.

Alfred Aceto, Philadelphia promoter, is again responsible for the talent on the show and has lined up the famous veteran "Chic" Garibaldi and Frank Bruce for the opening bout, a 30-minute time limit affair. Garibaldi, a campaigner of many years, is known for his ability to dish out plenty of abuse in the ring, but according to reports, Bruce is a grappler of the same nature and can give just as much as he can take.

Local fans, who went wild over the Australian tag match in the same gymnasium last December, will have more of the same in the coming matches. One team will feature Joe Corbet and Clyde Stevens, while the opposition will feature Jack Rush, one of the wrestling villains, and Les Ruffin. This match will be the best two-out-of-three falls.

Arrangements for the coming bouts are being made by Seymour Katz, chairman of the Lions club special activities committee.

Assignments for the local card were made yesterday in a meeting between Katz and Aceto.

The four clubs—Flint, Muskegon, Grand Rapids and Saginaw—had asked for a share of the broadcast money, claiming broadcasting of "Tiger" games in their territory violated baseball law and hurt their own attendance.

In his opinion, Chandler said: "From all the facts presented, the commissioner finds that the Detroit club did not violate major league rule one (D) during the 1950 baseball season in territory of clubs of the Central League."

"He finds that the Detroit baseball club did not, in fact, broadcast its games without consent within the home territory of the Muskegon baseball club, the Grand Rapids baseball club, the Saginaw baseball club or the Flint baseball club, while these teams were playing at home, in violation of that rule."

Some Conflict
"While there is some conflict in testimony as to isolated occasions the evidence is clear that the Detroit club took meticulous care to comply with the limitations of major league rule one (D) on its broadcast within the home territory of Central League clubs, and the Commissioner finds that, in fact, it did so comply with these limitations."

"In any event, the commission determines that neither on the evidence presented by the parties to its proceeding nor on the basis of the independent investigation requested and agreed to by the parties and conducted by the commissioner are any damages or compensation due to the Central League or its clubs, nor is any punitive or remedial action called for under any applicable agreement or rule."

IAM, Worthington Mower Teams Win

IAM blasted out a 15-5 victory over Line Material at East Stroudsburg Junior High last night, with Horace Fellenner leading the way with five hits in as many trips to the plate, including a homer and triple.

Rev. Ernest Campbell hurled his second straight shutout as Worthington Mower took the measure of Kulp's Foundry, 3-0, at Stroudsburg Playground, in the second game on last night's agenda.

Schedule
Tonight's schedule calls for Tucker's Chevrolet to clash with Line Material at Stroudsburg Playground, while the Eagles and Patterson-Kelley clash at East Stroudsburg Junior High. Both games begin at 6:30.

Giants Defeat Ailing Cards

New York (AP) — Larry Jansen went the route and won last night for the first time since opening day as the New York Giants defeated the floundering St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, before 20,379 fans.

Jansen, who blanked Boston on opening day and then was knocked out in his next four starts, restricted the Cards to four hits. The victory was his second compared to three defeats.

Homer
Stan Musial, under the weather, accounted for one Card run with a homer over the right field wall in the fifth. Jansen helped his cause by driving in two runs.

Rookie Joe Presko started for the Cards in place of Harry Brecheen.

A's Take Measure Of White Sox

Chicago (AP) — Bobby Shantz was rapped for a dozen hits but won his first 1951 victory yesterday when the Philadelphia Athletics coasted to a 9-4 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

The victory salvaged the final of the three game series for the Athletics and snapped the Comiskey four game winning streak.

The A's piled up a (6-0) lead after the first half of the second inning. Starter Dick Littlefield got into a four run jam in the opening round because of wildness. He walked four, yielding one single to Dave Philley, and then, after Hal Brown took over, Joe Astroth hit a two run single to right.

Circuit Blows
Brown was rocked for homers by Eddie Joost and Ferris Fain in the second inning. After the White Sox threatened to get back into the game by tallying single runs in the second, third and fourth games, the A's routed Brown with a three run cluster in the fifth that sealed the verdict.

Gordon's Homer Wins For Braves
Boston (AP) — Sid Gordon's ninth inning homer last night gave the Boston Braves a 2-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds at the expense of fireballing Herman Wehmeier.

He and Boston's Max Surkont, who won his fourth game, both gave up six hits.

While coming to the rescue of Surkont, who has lost but one of his five starts, Gordon also had the satisfaction of boosting the Braves back into first place with his fourth circuit drive of the campaign.

First Hit
The St. Louis Cardinals toppled off the top by bowing to the New York Giants 6-2 in another night tilt.

Wehmeier did not give the Braves a hit until the fifth inning.

ESSTC To Send Three Athletic Contingents Into Action Today
East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will send three of its athletic teams into action today, with two on the road and the third at Kutztown and fifth of the season, as the charges of Coach Ed Shay

Starting hurler for the Warriors was undecided last night, but the choice lies between Gene Talgo, Forrest "Tiger" Reitz, Bob Mellman or Jim Steidle. Talgo was the winning hurler in the 12-2 victory scored by ESSTC in the first meeting of the two teams.

Tennis
Coach Frank Grimm's varsity tennis forces will also oppose Kutztown on its home courts and the matches begin at 3:15. The Warriors will take a mark of the victories and the same number of defeats into today's matches.

The ESSTC girls' tennis squad will play host to Drexel Institute on the Normal Hill courts at 3:30 p. m. Jean Hecht, Elaine Hardenbergh and Pauline Shetlock will man the singles posts, while Alma Carson and Mary Martin form the first doubles team and Janith Mueller and Catherine Gerhart make up the second doubles team.

Palmerton Falls Before Eilenberger

Stroudsburg High school accounted for its initial Lehigh Valley league baseball victory of the season at Gordon Giffels field yesterday afternoon, with a convincing 12-2 decision over Palmerton, as Bob "Willie" Eilenberger southpawed his way to victory number two of the season. Eilenberger recently blanked Pen Argyl 7-0 in a non-league game, for Stroudsburg's only other victory. The Mountaineers have lost four times this season.

There was no doubt about the winner yesterday after the home club had exploded for eight runs in the bottom of the second inning, after Palmerton had tallied one marker in the top half of the opening round.

Stroudsburg made certain of victory by scoring once more in the fourth and running wild for three more in the bottom of the sixth.

Eilenberger gave up only five hits and was touched for a second run in the fifth. The likeable left hander retired two on strikes and allowed four batters to stroll to first base on walks.

Big Guts
Allen "Red" Ethenman, and Jerry Fritz led the Stroudsburg attack with two hits each, the former banging out a single and triple while Fritz came through with a pair of singles. Eilenberger also smacked a double in his own half.

George Lacko, with two singles and a double, was the big gun in a losing cause.

Yesterday's reversal was the fifth Lehigh Valley league defeat of the season for the Blue Bombers, who have yet to win a contest.

Stroudsburg has lost to Lehigh, Emmaus, Northampton and Catasauqua thus far this season.

Greene-Dreher Takes Measure Of Barrett With Four Runs In Top Half Of Fourth Inning, 8-4

Canadians—Barrett High school stepped out of Monroe County league competition yesterday afternoon and absorbed an 8-4 licking at the hands of Greene-Dreher High, on its own home field. The Greene-Dreher victory ended the season's series between the two foes, as Barrett won the first meeting of the two clubs, 13-5, earlier in the campaign.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY

T. Manning "Cap" Curtis' testimonial dinner to be held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post on Thursday, May 24, will be a mecca for stories of old times and outstanding happenings among former athletes at Stroudsburg High school. The fellows who once carried the ball for the W. Main St. school will swap yarns and tell tales concerning their careers and the manner in which they are felt at Stroudsburg High at the present time.

Among this group undoubtedly will be Joe Wallace, who is working like an eager beaver to make the affair a success. Joe, known as one of the top baseball fans of Monroe county, did his stuff in football, basketball and baseball at Stroudsburg High before Curtis took over the reins in 1925. Wallace began his athletic career in 1920 and wound it up in 1925. Joe was graduated in June of that year and Curtis took over the coaching duties in September.

Even though Joe never performed under Curtis, he did play against the popular mentor who called it quits after more than 20 years of coaching at the local school. Curtis was a student at East Stroudsburg State Normal school and a member of the junior varsity football team, as well as the varsity cage machine. The Normal school junior varsity grid contingent used to scrimmage against Stroudsburg High and it was during these practice sessions that Wallace first stacked up against Curtis.

Curtis ran out of the fullback post in those days, while Wallace was listed as a halfback. The drills between the two teams, to the best of Joe's knowledge, took place during the 1922 and 1923 campaigns. Grant Nitrauer, Stroudsburg attorney, did all the coaching when Wallace was an athlete at the W. Main St. school. Incidents of this type will be heard throughout the VFW club during the long awaited dinner, as friends, former teammates and athletes of present high standing get together. The entire affair seems certain to be the best of its kind ever held in this area.

Paul Elbrecht, sports editor of the Carbondale Daily News and a familiar figure in the North Atlantic league when the latter was still intact, is now dividing his time between the paper and sportscasting over radio station WCDL. Riegel Ridge, loser in an exhibition to Pocono A. C., 13-0, recently at Gordon Giffels field, opened the Tri-County league season with victories on both Saturday and Sunday. Riegel Ridge blanked Nazareth behind the pitching of Manager Bob Weiss, 2-0, then came back to down Alpha on Sunday, 13-7, behind the hurling of Bill "Lefty" Jensen and Art Cenci. Riegel Ridge finished third during the 1950 campaign, but came back to capture the post-season play-off honors.

Speaking of the Tri-County league brings to mind the fact that Eddie Snyder and Frank Stanczak, both former members of the Stroudsburg Poconos, are playing with Easton, of this circuit. Stanczak is doing the catching, while Snyder is holding down third base. Snyder, who played in Stroudsburg last year, is also basketball coach at Wilson Borough High school. Stanczak played his baseball at Gordon Giffels field in 1948. Nazareth, also of the Tri-County league, is another club with several former North Atlantic league stars on its roster.

Howie Gutshall, Jackie Allen, Art Stasiak and "Curt" Curtis, all formerly with the Nazareth Barons, of the North Atlantic circuit, helped Nazareth to one win in two starts over the weekend. Allen lost to Riegel Ridge, while Curtis pitched his club to a 10-8 decision over Easton. Allen also hurled for the Poconos at one time, while Curtis is remembered for his temperamental outbursts throughout the NAL. Due to the curtailment of baseball in the Monroe County league, the season in that loop is virtually completed at this early date.

Mickey McConnell, former director of scouts for the Brooklyn Dodgers, is now doing work for the Little League organization and only recently made some interesting facts public. McConnell passed on the word that some 3,000 Little Leagues, numbering a total of 12,000 teams, would be in action this summer. The game has spread to 39 states and on Long Island alone there are 20 leagues listed for operation. In Connecticut, where only one team operated four years ago, there will be 72 leagues in as many towns during the coming summer months.

McConnell went on to say that he thought within the next ten years it will be virtually impossible for a pro player to come out of Connecticut without having played Little League baseball.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Chestnuthill Downs Pocono

Circuit Blows Feature High Scoring Game

Brodheadsville — Chestnuthill High school exploded for five runs in the last of the seventh inning here yesterday to defeat Pocono High, 12-9, and remain in the thick of the southern division Monroe County league flag race. The charges of Coach Otto "Junior" Mills have won two of three starts this season.

Yesterday's battle was a wild-and-wooly contest from the opening pitch, as both teams came up with four runs in the opening round. The four Chestnuthill tallies came as the result of a grand-slam homer by Bob Burkett, who drilled the ball into deepest left field.

Each club scored again in the third and Pocono went ahead with three markers in the fifth frame. Bradford Youngken homered in the third for the visiting team, with a long blow to center.

Hold Edges

Chestnuthill came back with two runs in the bottom of he sixth, but Tom Jones homered in the top of the seventh, a long swat to left, to give Pocono a 9-7 edge at this point.

However, Chestnuthill tallied once in the bottom of the seventh and then filled the bases, with only one out. At this point John Bonser slammed a four-bagger into right center and the game was over.

Lions Slate Meeting To Honor Hall

Stroudsburg Lions, meeting last night at the Penn-Stroud hotel decided to hold their regular session of May 22 at the Inn at Buck Hill Falls in connection with the State convention scheduled there. On that date, it is expected that Elton Hall, now deputy district governor, will be elected district governor and the meeting will be in his honor.

The second reading of nomination of officers for the coming term took place, and it was pointed out by Committee Chairman Hall that Bernard F. Clemens, scheduled for election as first vice president, would not be able to accept the honor due to press of business. A meeting of the committee was held and the vice presidential slate rearranged as follows: first, Harry Phillips; second, William Hinton; third, Myron Zateeny. Election will take place next week.

Attention was called to the coming charter night banquet and ball of the new Tobyhanna club, to be held next Tuesday night. All members were urged to attend.

President Deering urgently requested members to volunteer for personal work at the coming State convention and William Livadah spoke along the same lines.

William Hinton spoke at length on the convention, telling of the great amount of work done by the area convention committee and pointing out that personal work should be done by the membership at large, as requested by the officers. He told also of the great amount of recreation and entertainment planned for the event.

Tom DeVivo spoke on the coming wrestling match, which will be held at the East Stroudsburg High school gym on Thursday, May 17.

The president made an appeal for volunteers to convey persons to the State trucks, where anti-tuberculosis screening will be done here in the week of May 15. This matter was amplified by the speaker of the evening, Arthur M. Slee, who said that the State Health department is assigning mobile X-ray units here to make tuberculosis screen tests. The work is to be done here with the cooperation of the Monroe Medical society.

He gave as his first proposition, the axiom "Public Health is Purchasable," and said that it is possible for the communities to practically set their own death rates.

He told how, by reason of scientific attack over the years, such terrors as diphtheria and smallpox have been practically conquered, and explained that tuberculosis also will yield to intelligent, concerted action. However, he admitted, the tuberculosis bacilli is a tough, individualistic and rugged germ and can live outside of the human body and, therefore cause new infections. However if its presence can be detected early it can be controlled and conquered. He told of the various types of the bacilli, human, bovine, avian and reptilian.

Care of foodhandlers to be free of the disease is important, he said. The greatest danger is between 20 and 40 years. The danger in youth, also, is very great.

The club made award of a convention hospitality book to Deputy Governor Elton Hall.

William Livadah and Tom DeVivo were honored on their birthdays.

Lucky, East Stroudsburg on Sunday. With the exception of Mrs. Gerhard, the party returned to Philadelphia afterward where Miss Warner and Mrs. Lucky will remain for several days as guests of the Mullens.
